

The Pentagon is taking a big chunk out of your taxes

Pentagon spending is out of control. 39 cents of each dollar paid in taxes to pay for current wars, war preparation and the debt on past wars. That works out to be $9,645 each year for each household in the U.S. How much are you paying for war?

The United States maintains 820 military installations in 135 countries around the world. Does this make sense?

We are currently fighting three wars in Iraq, Afghanistan and Libya. Do these wars make you feel safer?

Billions are spent on weapons systems that even the Pentagon doesn't want, yet Congress keeps increasing military spending. Did you know that the recent agreement between the Democrats and Republicans to cut $38 billion in spending actually included a $5 billion increase for the Pentagon?

Have you told your representatives how you want your tax dollars spent? This out of balance spending on the Pentagon will continue until enough of us say it is a time to stop.
